Hi! Come on in! I'm so glad you are here, because it's PRESENT DAY! You know what that means?
It's the day everyone gives presents to each other!

Blue got me a present, but she won't tell me what it is.
Can you find it? She's told me that it's wrapped in the colors of my shirt.

I have a present for Blue, too. It's wrapped in her favorite color! Do you see Blue's present? Do you think she will like it?

Hi, it's Shovel! I just love giving presents. I bought my sister, Pail, a great present. It's wrapped in paper that has spirals on it. And it also has a red bow and a yellow card. Do you know what I got her?

Shh, don't tell Shovel, but I got him something. It's wrapped in paper with stars on it, and has a crescent-shaped card. Do you see what I got him?

We can't have present day without Magenta! She's brought a present for Slippery Soap. Look inside—it's yellow, has webbed feet, and will help him swim faster!

Whoa . . . whoa, it's me, Slippery! I can't wait to give Magenta the present I got for her. It's rectangular and it flashes. Can you figure out which present it is?

Present time! Present time! Oh, Blue, I love my present. Thank you so much! What did everyone else get? Wow! You are all great gift givers.

Hey, we pitched in and got something for you, too!
Go ahead, open it! Thank you so much for coming!
Happy Present Day!

Note to Parents from Creators:

The Blue's Clues thinking-skills curriculum empowers children in two ways: It allows them to voice their opinions and helps them to solve problems on their own. There are many different games throughout this book, and you and your child will discover a new game each time you read it. These games help children learn specific skills such as patterning, associations, attributes, and relational concepts.

Based on the TV series Blue's Clues® created by Traci Paige Johnson, Todd Kessler, and Angela C. Santomero as seen on Nick Jr.® On Blue's Clues, Steve is played by Steven Burns.
